VMKB TRUST

About the VMKB Trust

A legacy of philanthropy since 1896

Sheth Varjivandas Madhavdas Kapol Boarding School Trust (VMKB), established in 1896, stands as a symbol of enduring values, commitment to education and community service. Founded by Sheth Shri Tribhovandas and Sheth Shri Jagmohandas in memory of their father, Sheth Shri Varjivandas Madhavdas, the institution reflects a rich legacy rooted in philanthropy and social upliftment.

Legacy & Foundation

During its formative years, the institution was nurtured with dedication by Sheth Shri Tribhovandas. After his demise, Sheth Shri Jagmohandas not only assumed the responsibility of managing the institution but also strengthened its foundation through generous contributions, making it financially independent. This noble legacy was further carried forward by Lady Laxmibai, preserving and nurturing the institution's values over the years.

A Journey of Excellence

The founding fathers of VMKB envisioned this institution as a place where bright students would be supported with the necessary facilities and infrastructure to achieve their academic goals. What began as a modest initiative with just seven students has today grown into a well-established institution accommodating over 100 students. Along with academic focus, the institution also encourages overall personality development. VMKB is widely appreciated for its contribution to the upliftment of both Kapol and non-Kapol students, and to society at large.
